Illustration 1: Be assured with the minimum death benefit

For an investment of S$100,000 at age 45, the minimum death benefit remains at S$101,000* even if the fund value declines below the initial investment.

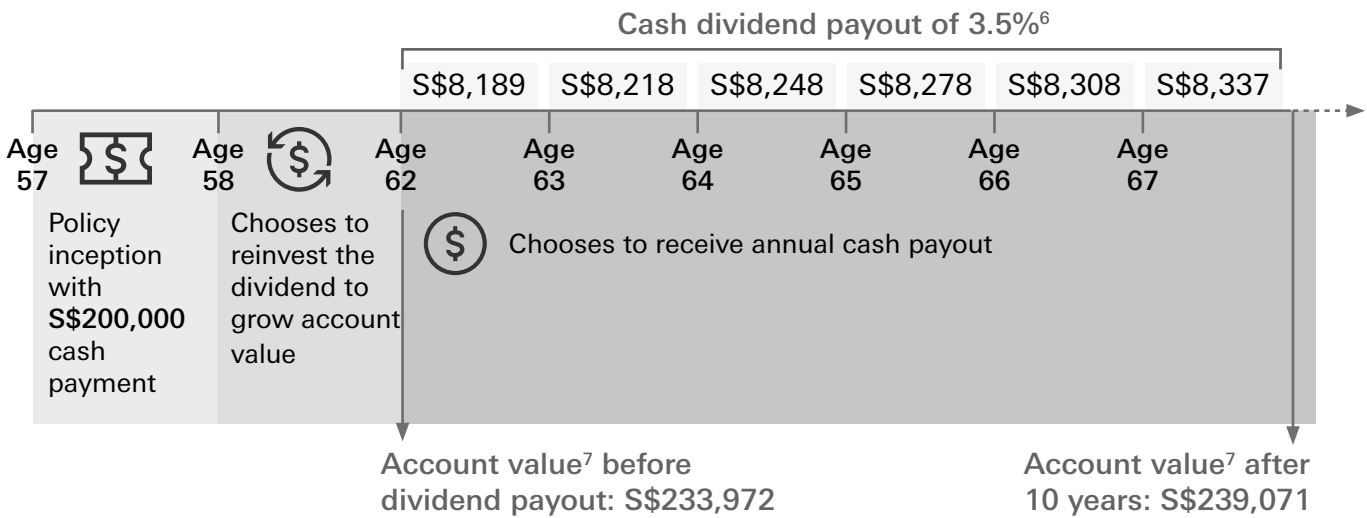

Diagram above is not drawn to scale.

Illustration 2: How the flexible option for dividend payout can provide a potential source of regular income

Richard, aged 57, purchases a HSBC Life Wealth Invest (Cash/SRS) with a cash payment of $200,000. He intends to receive an additional potential income⁵ upon retirement at age 62 to complement his annuity.

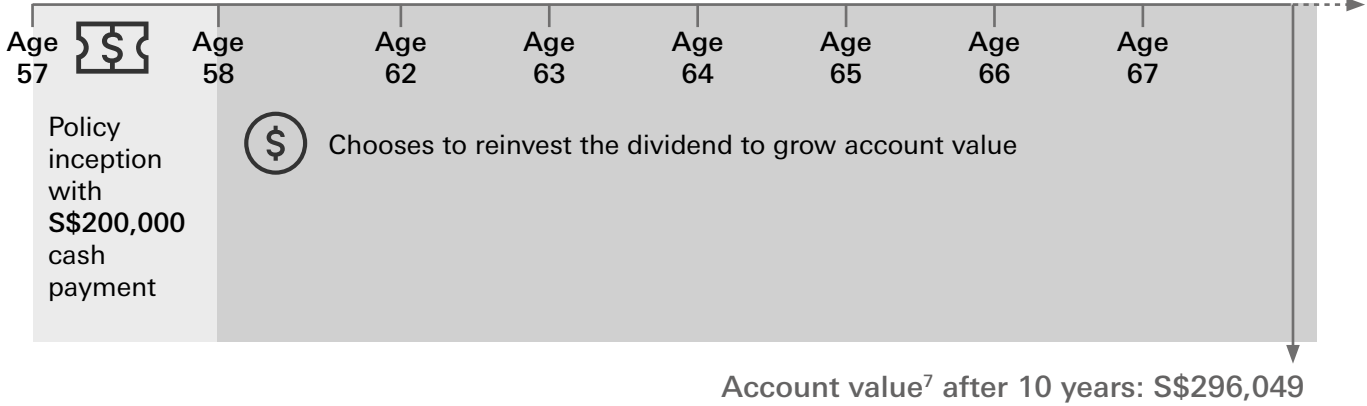

Scenario A: He selects a dividend paying ILP sub-fund that provides a potential dividend payout of 3.5% for his investment portfolio, and chooses to reinvest the dividend payouts. At age 62, he chooses to receive the annual cash payout to support his retirement needs³.

Account value at end of year 10 = S$239,071
 Total cash dividend payout = S$49,578
 Total cash value = S$239,071 + S$49,578 = S$288,650

Scenario B: Alternatively, he can choose not to utilise the dividend payout option by letting his dividends be reinvested.

Total cash value = Account value at end of year 10 = S$296,049

The values in the above illustration are non-guaranteed, and subjected to the distributions and performance of the chosen ILP sub-fund.

You should read the product summary, product highlights sheets and fund summary before deciding whether to purchase the product and subscribe for units in the ILP sub-funds. You may wish to seek advice from a Financial Planner before making a commitment to purchase the product. In the event that you choose not to seek advice from a Financial Planner, you should consider whether the product in question is suitable for you. Please refer to the general provisions for the exact terms and conditions, specific details and exclusion of this product. Investments in this plan are subject to investment risks including the possible loss of principal amount invested. The value of the units may rise as well as fall. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future performance. As buying a life insurance policy is a long-term commitment, an early termination of the policy usually incurs high cost and the surrender value, if any, that is payable to you may be zero or less than the total premiums paid. It is also detrimental to replace an existing life insurance policy with a new one as the new policy may cost more or have fewer benefits at the same cost.

This policy is protected under the Policy Owners' Protection Scheme which is administered by the Singapore Deposit Insurance Corporation (SDIC). Coverage for your policy is automatic and no further action is required from you.
